FIRESEEDS

Every builder knows having the right tool can make the difference between success and failure. The stats record the sober problem: many Christian undergrads abandon their faith by the time they graduate. Oftentimes they lack vision for how God could actually work in their lives or on their campuses (or why it matters).

Any good campus vision tools? One of the best is the time-tested book, Fireseeds. Chalked full of historical accounts of revival across time, culture and continent, the book not only shows how revival is possible in this generation, but how to set our sails to catch the Spirit's wind! It is a resource we have recommended countless times to students, and which staff across the nation constantly reference.

This year, David was asked to voice the soon-to-be-released audiobook edition. This is strategic, because more and more students are finding creative ways to intake information. An audio resource is oftentimes more affordable and easier to digest for students, especially if most of their time is already spent reading textbooks.

WASHINGTON DC

Ecc 3:1-8 reminds us there is a time for everything under the sun—to weep, to laugh, to keep silence, to speak... For us 2023-24 has been a time to regroup. 2024-25 is a time to advance. We are thrilled to share, our next assignment will be in Washington, DC with the metro campus ministry. The team there seems great, and we have already made some great connections with other Cru staff, churches and ministry friends in the area.

Our plan is to move from FL in June, connect with as many ministry partners as we can, and then move to DC before Fall 24. Pray for smooth transitions and His leading on our next living situation.
